ARMY NURSE IS REAL HEROINE.

Wears Seventeen Stripes for Her War Wounds.

Reported Dead, Now Wins Way Back to Health.

Mother's Faith That Girl Was Alive Justified.

PORT SAN HOUSTON (Tex.) Dec. 11.—Living in a little cottage just outside the military reservation of Port San Houston is Miss Alice M. Frawley, who is convalescing from her war wounds.

Her record of service as a member of the United States Army Nurse Corps is one of heroism, according to officers of the Ninetieth Division, to which she is attached. It is stated that the seventeen wound stripes which she is entitled to wear upon the sleeve of her nurse's uniform are greater in number than were ever won by any woman, and perhaps by but few men.

According to the records of the War Department Miss Frawley was killed in a German air raid. Despite this official chronicle of her death she is very much alive today and is gradually improving under treatment at the government hospital here. In the belief that her daughter was dead, based on the official report of the War Department, Mrs. Frawley, whose home is in Chicago, drew several installments of Miss Frawley's war risk insurance before the discovery was made that she was still alive. In fact, it was not until the War Department made an investigation which proved the fallacy of the earlier report.

MOTHER HAD FAITH. It was one year and eight months after she was supposed to have received her fatal wounds in a German air raid upon a hospital near the battle line that Miss Frawley lay in a hospital, hovering between life and death, with her parents in Chicago suffering anguish in the thought that somewhere in France poppies were withering over her grave.

Without knowing the apparent consciousness of the report that her daughter was dead there still lurked dimly in the mind of Mrs. Frawley the faith that sometime and somewhere they would again be united in the flesh.

Finally, nearly two years after the receipt of the formal telegram from the War Department announcing Miss Frawley's death, a message came saying that Miss Frawley's body was on its way overseas to the Walter Reed Hospital, and that Mrs. Frawley was to be reunited with her daughter.

At first the father and mother were urged not to see the mangled daughter, who had left for overseas in such good health. For fear the shock would have serious effects upon the mother, Mrs. Frawley was given a glimpse, however, and motherly love immediately began to make plans for making her child well again.

When Miss Frawley, after what she terms a most wonderful surgical operation, was released from the Walter Reed Hospital, she was sent to San Antonio to take it easy in that balmy climate.

The first of Miss Frawley's many wounds was received while she was serving temporarily as a nurse in France. Bombed from a German plane, the hospital she received a scalp wound in another raid a piece of shrapnel took off a finger. Sometime later she was serving in an emergency hospital at Chateau-Thierry and was assisting in a delicate operation when a high explosive shell burst in the midst of the wounded patients, nurses and surgeons. The dressing station was annihilated when the mangled form was picked from the ruins and taken to the hospital there was but little life in her body. For months and months she was in the "shadow of death." Gradually the fifteen wound stripes show Miss Frawley saw the limit of service in France. She was in five major engagements, a most remarkable record for a woman in itself, and was innumerable air raids and attacks on hospitals and relief bases.

For her services, Miss Frawley holds the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre and other lesser decorations. The people of Allen county, Ohio, where she was born, presented her with a bronze medal in appreciation of her services to them through her services to her country.

The American Legion, Maj.-Gen. Harbord and many of the high officers with whose work she was identified overseas, are making efforts to untangle the coils of red tape which keep closed the secret of how she came to be reported dead. The Alamo Post of the American Legion the other day made her a member of the local organization for life.

Miss Frawley's father is repair superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, with headquarters in Chicago.

Courthouse Guarded. VIENNA, Dec. 11.—With a double guard of soldiers and bayonets surrounded the courthouse the trial of persons arrested following the recent riot began yesterday. Twenty-five were given sentences ranging up to ten months' imprisonment.

The World Today

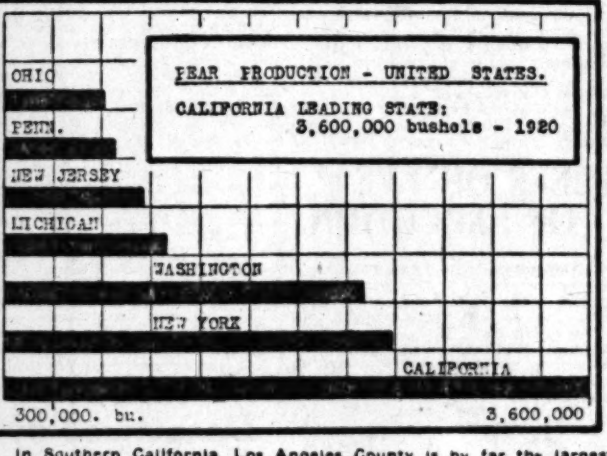

This article on pears, compiled by the Research Department of The First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, is one of a series covering products of Southern California.

Among the orchard fruits of America the pear is the fourth most important fruit. The State of California has become the leading pear-producing State in the United States, her production in 1920 being 3,600,000 bushels, which had a value of approximately $8,100,000. The total production for the United States was 17,279,000 bushels for the same year. The second State in importance, New York, had a yield of 2,375,000 bushels.

Undoubtedly California will continue to hold the leading position among the pear-producing States for the reason that the industry is flourishing in California and a considerable export trade is being built up. The accompanying chart graphically shows by what a considerable margin California leads all other States of the Union. New York, the second State in importance, has a production approximately 50 per cent less than California, and this is the case with the State of Washington which is about equal to New York in pear production.

The pear is a deciduous fruit of the temperate climates, and was early brought to America from its native home in Europe. The cultivation of the pear is widespread throughout the world but the countries of France and the United States are the largest producers. This fruit meets with great popular acclaim as a dessert, and is extensively used for canning and preserving. In Europe large quantities of the fruit are used in baking, chiefly for "perry."

The pear tree of commercial orchards is grafted or budded upon a seedling pear, which is generally the seed of the wild pear of Europe. The best soil is a heavy clay loam that is well drained.

In Southern California, Los Angeles County is by far the largest pear-producing county, and its rank in the State has advanced from twentieth in 1910 to seventh in 1920. This is a remarkable achievement when it is considered that this county is principally a producer of semi-tropical fruit and that the pear is a temperate zone fruit.

During the year 1910 the production of Los Angeles County was 21,161 bushels; in 1920 it was 109,186 bushels. However, the significant fact is that this county now has 199,531 bearing pear trees and 244,209 non-bearing trees, while in 1910 there were only a total of 16,149 trees. The percentage increase in the total number of pear trees for the ten-year period is 2670 per cent. No county in the State can equal this record in the planting of pear trees and it is safe to say that within the next few years Los Angeles County will be among the first four pear-producing counties of the State. Only one county, Placer, exceeds Los Angeles County in the number of non-bearing pear trees, and this lead is only 15,000 trees, while Los Angeles leads the next highest county, Sacramento, by some 50,000 trees.

Sacramento County is at present by far the largest producer of pears, producing in 1920, 982,058 bushels. The production of the other important counties is as follows: Santa Clara, 195,111 bushels; Solano, 281,622 bushels; Placer, 288,763 bushels; Sonoma, 231,974 bushels; Contra Costa, 199,639 bushels, and Los Angeles County, 109,186 bushels.

The future of pear culture is particularly bright for Los Angeles County for, when all the non-bearing trees are in bearing, the total number of trees will be 443,740, only 65,700 less than Sacramento County.

OFFICE OF THE CONTROLLER
Sacramento, California
November 22, 1921.

Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, Attention Mr. C. E. Pyle.
Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 14th addressed to Mr. C. E. Cooper, Deputy Controller, has my attention. I appreciate your courtesy in forwarding the tax pamphlet distributed by the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, and congratulate you upon the simplicity of its arrangement and the full information it contains.

It is a concise presentation of the law of California and should be much to the benefit of the frequently repeated statement that California's inheritance tax law is satisfactory in its nature.

Yours very truly,
Controller.

This letter is the Controller's comment on the study, "California Inheritance Taxes and Federal Estate Taxes," prepared by the Trust Department of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank. This booklet shows that the laws offer methods of protection whereby the accumulations of years will not be materially depleted through the payment of such taxes. Mr. Pyle will supply a copy of the study and upon request will point out the proper methods of procedure in individual cases.

LAPSED POLICIES MAY BE REVIVED.
MORE TIME GIVEN TO FORMER SERVICE MEN TO PROTECT WAR INSURANCE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Regulations of the United States Veterans Bureau limiting the time for reinstatement of war risk insurance for ex-service men to December 31 of this year have been amended, effective Jan. 12, 1922, so that men who have allowed their policies to lapse may reinstate them at any time before March 4, 1922, according to Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the bureau.

It has come to the attention of the bureau that a great number of men have allowed their insurance to lapse because they do not realize their rights both to reinstate and convert their insurance into one of the permanent forms offered by the government.

"Briefly, the requirements for reinstatement will be as follows: 'If the ex-service man's insurance has lapsed for less than three months and if he is in as good health as at the due date of the premium in default, he can reinstate by so stating in his written application and by paying two months' premiums on the amount of insurance he wished to reinstate.'

"If the insurance has lapsed for more than three months, it will be necessary for him to submit the report of a full medical examination in addition to his statement testifying good health and pay two months' premiums on the amount of insurance he wishes to reinstate."

JAPAN TO BACK DOWN ON SHANTUNG CLAIM.

China Will Win "In Principle" as Delegates Were Afraid to Recede from Original Position.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Japan is prepared to back down in her demand for half control of the Shantung railroad, thus paving the way for the final settlement of this great issue.

China will win, at least "in principle," although actual withdrawal of Japanese and restoration of the leasehold and economic rights obtained under the Versailles treaty and the twenty-one demands will not be accomplished at once and will depend upon the ability of China to fulfill the financial and peace-keeping obligations which she will assume.

Announcement of the attitude of Japan is expected in a day or two and the whole matter will be left to continued negotiations outside the conference. It may be called another success directly attributable to the conference, if this plan materializes as promised. Japanese diplomats have prophesied for several days that the Shantung question would be settled. It could only be settled in one way because the Chinese delegates were afraid to retreat an inch from their stand for complete restoration of the former German rights. Pressure from student and political organizations here and in China was too strong.

The delegates knew that if they yielded they would fall and possibly their government. In fact, they had been given this week to make good in getting something concrete and vital to China. Japan did not have to yield. She had been given the week to become stronger every day and has rights which are recognized in international law. The powers that stood back of her at Versailles could not force her to yield. She has chosen this way because it seemed the wisest way and she needs to hold China as a friend rather than an enemy. And Chinese bankers have offered to buy back the road.

CHINESE FEEL BETTER.

A note of distinct optimism was found at Chinese headquarters today. Even Dr. P. K. T'au, who resigned the other day because he was dissatisfied with the way things were going, is pleased with the promise of Secretary Hughes to work out a nine-power agreement in which China will be a partner. They are pleased with getting rid of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. They have begun to think that the principle adopted by this conference regarding China may be something more than words, and that even Japan in the light of a public opinion grown more intelligent on Far Eastern questions, may be expected to give vitality to the words in future deeds. They are slow feeling of China from the grip of foreigners rather than a slow feeling of the military machine.

MANCHURIAN LEADER.

One more great thing is asked by China and that is the abrogation of the treaty embodied in the twenty-one demands. Japan yielding in Shantung is not likely to yield in the matter of extrajurisdiction of Port Arthur and Manchurian railroad leases. But it is another year before the old and repressive lease expires and in that time China hopes to have a world opinion behind her that will make it unprofitable for Japan to continue her exploitation of Manchuria.

The Far Eastern committee will continue its labors tomorrow. In order, according to Hughes' words, "that we may accomplish still more in the further accomplishment of a fair co-operation without derogating from the proper liberty of any nation and in order to obtain in all the matters that are within the range of our examination in this conference, the fullest satisfaction of natural and legitimate aspirations, while at the same time we shall conserve the fundamental interest of peace and assure for the future that there will be tranquility in this war-weary world."

EXPECT PACT ON NAVY SOON.

of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, it would appear that one of the obstacles to consideration of the Japanese proposal has been removed. With Japan pledged not to attack the Philippines and the United States assured of the support of Great Britain to check any violation of the agreement, America, it is contended, would be yielding nothing vital, particularly as there are not and never have been any serious plans put forward by the American government to create a naval base at Guam or to make Philippine fortifications impracticable.

An argument heard in American official circles tonight is that an agreement to halt the establishment of naval bases and extension of fortifications is unnecessary with the four-power understanding in effect. With the only powers in the Pacific capable of aggression pledged to respect the territorial integrity of each other's possessions, the expansion of gains and naval bases could be defended. It is asserted, only by scouting the good faith of one or more of the signatory nations at the outset.

The halting of fortification construction, it is contended, is clearly implied by the spirit, if not the letter, of the four-power treaty, and any deviation from such implication could properly be construed as a violation of the compact.

JAPS WILL AGREE TO QUIT SIBERIA.

"GENTLEMEN'S DECLARATION" IS SOON TO BE ANNOUNCED BY GOVERNMENT.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

In selecting All-Southern California football teams we are not aware of any coach further away from the champion of our section than did Dick Moore from Berkeley when he picked an All-Pacific team. Dick named the whole California line on his team and two of the California backs, making a total of nine all told.

We are naming eight U.S.C. players on our mythical combination because U.S.C. was the outstanding team in the south, and those particular athletes were either the best in their respective positions or else had the benefit of superior coaching. Possibly a combination of both would be nearer the truth.

No report has been had from the opinions of coaches, officials or other witnesses in making the selection. The only opinion in the record of one man's opinion after watching the various eleven in action during the season's play. In a history of all-star selections going back many years, no one who had the temerity to assemble one of these mythical things have escaped the wrath of the guy who believed he was a better picker or

U.S.C. was the best end in the South. He was a home run with fumbles in the game with Washington State. His long forte was in the line, and he was the one and another star. The Buggetts of Whittier and Sax of Washington State.

Evans and Evans of U.S.C. are a pair of tackles any coach would be glad to have. Evans didn't hit hard in the game with Washington, but from then on he had everything on the ball. His work in the Oregon Aggie game was brilliant. Six minutes against the robust forwards of the North-

MATHE HERBERT.

We expect to get ours but retain the consolation of believing that the fellows we place on our letter gang will be glad to lend us their silk shirt when we want to call on our best girl. Some of the boys have more silk shirts than others, so, of course, they get first on our list.

The easiest players on our team to pick are the backfield men, Charlie Dean, U.S.C., captain, outstandingly good, and the first cut. Dean can hit the line and run the ends with equal facility, and is a wonder at backing up. He has a great deal of strength, use of straight arm, change of pace and dodging and is a great help to the main line. With or without the coat to the south, if not on the Coast to were a revelation to those who have seen him. He is a real play in the early season tugups. His kicking of ability is one big asset in his favor. Boyle was the best of the bunch, but his kicking work in that game against the highly touted Bear forwards gives him the call. Best Pyle's average is 30 yards, and he is the ideal build for tackling. Buckmaster of Whittier was their closest rival.

TOUGH BARRIERS.

The guards are Foster of U.S.C. and Thompson of Redlands. Guards are always hard to see. They do their work in the middle of the line, opening up holes on the offense, coming around on the in-coming plays, and holding the defense without much more than getting their name in the top. His eighty-yard run to a touchdown in the Pemona game was the first of the season. He called forth every element of gridiron genius. No line on the line, no end, even the California stopped him. He scored U.S.C.'s lone touchdown against the Bears by puncturing the line.

SUGGETT GOOD.

Suggett, Whitaker, Kincaid and Ledingham of U.S.C. will be Dean's running mates. Perhaps it is untruthful and an injustice to Suggett, but he is not the star. Suggett was Whitaker's whole offense, and yet without Suggett in line, Whitaker would be worth much like a scoring machine. The Quaker back is rugged, a second Dean in strength, but lacking some of Dean's speed and ability in the open field. This was Dean's last year as a varsity football player. Suggett has two more. He can learn much in that time.

THOMAS KINCAID OF U.S.C. at right is the second best runner on the team. In the South deserves an all-south selection they are Hester and Thompson.

THE LINE. No dispute about the center of the line. Calland is the first and only logical choice. He has outplayed every good center on the Coast this season. He has ball very little this season, one of the Lindley twins performing the center's duties. Calland is used as a defensive center, where he could stop short forward passes over the line and diagnose plays. He is a good player. The right of Dunlap of Washington State, who resulted in two of the fumbles, is the best line back. He is anxious to get the ball away and beat Calland to the charge, but the coach Treloan outrushed him, thus saving the team from a costly later fumble twice when it was costly.

SECOND TEAM.

Our second team is but a shade

"Echo" Leadmuth was the same old elusive, hard to nail 'em down guy who had been the season die because of his full meed of praise. He didn't play like a star like Dean, but on a skin-tight, he could always be depended on in bits of a chunk of yardage. He was a little bit of a big games was moved up on the line to go down on punts. He did everything to be expected of him in the game.

ALWAYS THERE.

"Echo" Leadmuth was the same old elusive, hard to nail 'em down guy who had been the season die because of his full meed of praise. He didn't play like a star like Dean, but on a skin-tight, he could always be depended on in bits of a chunk of yardage. He was a little bit of a big games was moved up on the line to go down on punts. He did everything to be expected of him in the game.

On the U.S.C. team, when he was a freshman, he handled his engine of attack with rare judgment, and when U. C. C. was a chance, score he was never far from call the right play at the right time.

On the flanks we place Louis of Occidental and Smith of U.S.C. Left and right backs were throughout the season, and emulated the famous White of Princeton fame in scooping up fumbles and kicking the ball. He did this in both the Whittier and Pomona games. He was keen to make a play, hard to box out in the line, and he was a good player in his last varsity ball game.

A coach of this all-star aggregation hesitated not at naming Gloomy Gus Henderson of U.S.C. We hesitate no longer than we did when nicknaming him in the fall of 1919. He made his debut on the U.S.C. campus. The Trojans have won three Southern California championships—a record which may be stepped in a matter of weeks.

A better recommendation is not needed.

A gun club has been organized by the Standard Oil Company.

ESPEE ELEVEN KEEPS UNDEFEATED RECORD

Two touchdowns, scored in the last quarter, spelled defeat for the San Bernardino American Legion eleven yesterday afternoon when the undefeated Espie pignhiner hopped on them in the merry melee of 13 to 0 at Maier Park. Wiley, halfback for the locals, made both halves on off-tackle bursts. Gersavage and who played the wing positions, featured for the Espie team, while Woods and Chard, both backs, starred for the losers.

WANTED - Real Estate and Business Opportunities. This section contains numerous small advertisements for various services, including real estate listings, business opportunities, and professional services. The ads are organized into columns and often include contact information such as phone numbers and addresses. Key categories include:

- Real Estate: Listings for houses, apartments, and commercial properties, often with details on price, location, and features.
- Business Opportunities: Offers for various types of businesses, including restaurants, retail stores, and service-oriented enterprises.
- Professional Services: Advertisements for lawyers, accountants, and other professionals.
- Personal Services: Listings for things like car washes, cleaning services, and other local businesses.

The text is dense and repetitive, typical of a classified advertisement page from a mid-20th-century newspaper. The ads are often written in a straightforward, promotional style, aiming to attract potential customers or clients quickly.

he had headed the Continental Creamery Company, at that time the largest creamery in the West America, and which was merged into the properties of the Beatrice Creamery Company of Chicago, and the latter was sold to Jensen. Jensen was the organizer of the California Central Creameries of San Francisco, and for the past three years he has been in charge. Very recently, was the vice-president of the Utah company. A. Jensen is one of the most widely known dairy manufacturers in the United States, being also the patentee of a great number of modern appliances used in butter and cheese making.

"The Mutual Creamery Company claims to be one of the first corporations in America to combine the retail and wholesale field—to perfect an organization which welds into one unit the interests of the investor, the producer and the retailer, and the employee. This organization has been so fashioned as to provide in its articles of incorporation a certain percentage of the capital invested—in which return the investor and the farmer participate equally—and at the same time to first give the employee a share in employee-participation in the earnings. Developments that may swing the balance in favor of Arthur Burch in his fight to escape conviction as the murderer of J. Belmont Kennedy were more or less confidently hinted at yesterday by the prosecuting attorney, J. J. Connelley. There was intimation that "weak links" had been discovered in the chain of evidence the prosecution is endeavoring to establish against the accused. These concerned asserted discrepancies in testimony regarding the time Kennedy was intended to show. It was indicated Burch could not possibly have been at different points testified to by Burch witnesses on the same night of the slaying.

There was also considerable surmise that a restaurant, the name of which it was said, would further redound to the advantage of Burch's father and John J. Sullivan, of counsel for the defense, were rumored to be following up this "lead." Counsel for Burch also was said to have been busy sprucing at the proper time.

Burch has been "amused" at the prosecution's "lead" and to prove him guilty of the murder of Mr. Kennedy here last August and as he puts it, just as confidently as he will "walk the street" at the close of the trial. Burch is awaiting the fourth week of his murder trial, which will open tomorrow in Judge Lewis' court.

A further accurate check of mileage necessary to travel to the various points where the witness has testified Burch was seen the night of the slaying disclosed a large discrepancy somewhere, it is asserted by the defense.

Burch has been identified by witnesses as having been at different points within a radius of not less than 47.4 miles of travel. The odometer reading on the car in the Frankmar brothers' garage, however, showed only forty-four miles on the night of August 5, when Mr. Kennedy was killed.

This asserted discrepancy will be used by the defense in an attack on the testimony of Mrs. Elizabeth Belmont Kennedy, widow of the slain, who, according to her husband, Louis Besenby. Both have said they saw Burch both before and after the slaying, and that he was in the Kennedy cabin in Berne, N. Y. Glen. By adding these two trips to the mileage, it would have been necessary for the Burch

Following a country-wide search of more than a year, H. M. Overgaard, stated to have been a former prominent broker of Sioux City, Iowa, was arrested last night at his home, 1408 North Hobart Boulevard. He is charged in two bench warrants issued in Denison Crawford county, Iowa, Nov. 19, 1932, with conspiracy and murder, representing the earning power of corporate securities. The arrest was made by Detective Sergeant Oakes, who had been invited to dinner with his wife, formerly prominent in Sioux City society and his year-old daughter, who had been taken to the city from information telegraphed by Sheriff W. Jones of Sioux City and just as Mr. Overgaard sat down. Overgaard is suspected also of connection with a reputed swindle in Denison last year. He was indicted Nov. 15, 1932, on charges of conspiracy, conspiracy to defraud and larceny. Total bail is set at $15,000.

Mr. Overgaard, who is said to be a native of the Dakotas, was in the city, arrived in Los Angeles about three months ago with his family, according to Detective Oakes. He had been out of the city last year. After his arrest last night he was allowed to finish his dinner and was then taken to the City Jail and booked on the charges of conspiracy. Sioux City and Denison police officers were notified.

Police Station No. 10. Mr. Overgaard remarked that his charges against him constituted a civil action rather than a criminal one. He said he was not sure of this at his apprehension he cheerfully declared that he was not in a position at present to discuss the case.

Mrs. Rose Gazzo, 40 years of age, of 453 South Howe street, was probably fatally burned early yesterday morning when her clothes caught fire from a gas heater.

Police Surgeon Beggs, who attended Mrs. Gazzo, was told she awakened at 8 o'clock in the morning, turned on the gas in the heater, and that, while bending over it after lighting it, her garments caught fire. Occupants of the house were aroused by her screams and took the burning apparel off her body.

At the Receiving Hospital an examination showed severe burns on the chest and arms, and on the legs and arms. Mrs. Gazzo was taken to the County Hospital in a dying condition.

inal military march song written by Carrie Jacobs-Bond one of America's greatest composers, author of "The End of a Perfect Day" and other famous songs. Mrs. Bond's newest work is dedicated to the American Legion and will be sung for the first time Monday evening, December 19, at the opening of the Legion's week of benefit operations in this city. Next Sunday's Times rotogravure section will contain the complete words and music with an art cover done in the incomparable rotogravure process.

Words worthy of the music and the subject have been written by Fanny Hodge Newman. "The American Legion," as the song is entitled, is an important addition to America's patriotic music.

Those who are interested in new songs should be placed with news dealers early, as the demand for The Times containing the song will be great.

Public airing of the actor's domestic life, as was hinted some time ago.

It was reported here yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Williams would return to this city from Chicago today. Eastern dispatches say that the actor's second time ago was Charles Erbstein, the Chicago attorney who has figured in the Obenchain case, to represent him in a divorce suit, but Mr. Williams is authority for the statement that Mrs. Williams, when she left her home to go to New York, was with her parents, nothing more.

According to reports from Chicago yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Williams are expected to arrive at the Blackstone Hotel, where absolute harmony appeared to reign. Mr. Williams' last breach-of-contract suit against the actress Roma Raymond, a Polish actress,

Driver Who Ran Down Man

Police are searching for the driver of an unidentified automobile which struck and seriously injured a man believed to be Fred Ray, 31 years of age, 1233 West Fifth street, early yesterday morning.

The injured man was found lying on the sidewalk on Slauson avenue by Thomas Malone and N. Brown of 1348 East Fifteenth street. They took him to the Riverside hospital where police surgeons found he had received internal injuries, a wrenched back and many other injuries.

The machine that struck him sped away after the accident. The police man was later removed to the County Hospital.

Colorado River problem and which has strongly recommended the construction of a dam in Boulder Canyon, will attend.

Others who will be present include Gov. Bryce of Nevada and Maj. S. D. Ardrey of Los Angeles, engineer of the War Department. Delegates to the League of the Southwest meeting at Riverside are expected to attend the official hearing in a body.

Among the early arrivals there is a possibility that the hope that the sessions here will result in impressing upon Secretary Paillard and through him Congress, the importance of the Bureau's effort to protect and its relation to the development of the Southwest.

It is also expected that Secretary Paillard will announce that he will hear the opinions of a number of groups of communities concerned.

FALLS FROM WINDOW.

W. J. Smith, rooming at 434 1/2 East Seventh street, awakened early yesterday morning to find an intruder in his room. The man told him he would have to place his clothes in a locker and that he would get him a key later. Mr. Noble of 114 West Fifty-third street, was severely injured yesterday by a fall from a second-floor window, caused by a screen giving way when she leaned against it. She suffered a fracture of the skull. Dr. Milton D. W. Jeffers

The People and Their Daily Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

KEEPING YOUNG.

The other day a distinguished physician, almost 100 years old, undertook to explain to a medical society the secret of living to an advanced age. He said we might all live to be 100, and to help us he gave us his daily routine. He slept nine hours, ate no meat, drank no tea, coffee or other stimulants; he never smoked; he worked hard; he did not worry, and his diet was principally milk.

ALL GOOD RULES, BUT—

The routine is an admirable one. We listen to it with respect. But when we remember that only the other day an old woman who was celebrating her hundredth birthday loudly attributed her ripe old age to the fact that she had smoked incessantly since she was 15 and that her favorite beverage throughout the long period had been green tea. We also remember that the late Queen Victoria, who lived to be 87 or so, always had a stiff drink of Scotch whisky and soda before she went to bed.

Recalling these things and much additional testimony, we become confused. We begin to look around, to turn a critical gaze on friends and strangers, to consider their state of preservation in comparison with our own, and certain things become clear to us.

NOT AGED BUT TIGHT.

We discover first of all that what we want—and most especially what women want—is not so much to live and grow old as to live and keep young. To be 99 and feel 99 cannot be an agreeable condition. To be 99 and to feel and look 60 or 70 might be very agreeable. Indeed, one would have acquired too much knowledge so many memories.

In most hearts the whole question boils down to this—the unuttered prayer of countless men and women.

"Dear Lord, let me live as long as I am well and useful. When my health is gone and my usefulness is ended, take me quickly." Though we feel this so deeply, we have at times forgot it. We are apt to forget, too, that many a life which ends at forty was infinitely fuller, more complete, more rounded out, than most lives that end at eighty.

JOHN BIGELOW'S THEORY
The late John Bigelow once said to me, when he was over 90: "People make a fuss about me because I'm so old. They seem to think I'm a curiosity. I wish I could live another hundred years. By that time I'd know something—and then I might be worth making a fuss over."

So we come back to that knowledge which lies deep in our souls. Life is not an affair of years. Whether it is long or short, is unimportant. The important points are, how long we lived, what we did it accomplish? The will to live is trivial compared with the will to do, and the power to do, and the patience to do and joy in the doing of good work.

That's something for women to think about while they are managing their china ten minutes every day. The woman who has ceased to be useful somehow, somewhere, to some one is dead, however long she imagines she is living.

Plans for a two-story hollow addition to the Turkish baths department.

for forty years for the purchase of a ranch.

The soldier can do nothing of the sort. This is quite characteristic of the rest of this hysterical communitarianism from a "mother of her country" via the knitted sock and garter route.

If a certain bond issue is voted upon next November, 1922, there may be available about February of 1923, funds to permit soldiers to buy ranches up to $7500 provided they pay down in cash $750—which a whole lot of them haven't got.

Therefore the worthy lady is entirely wrong at the present writing, and a year from now will be 60 per cent wrong, which I presume, is quite close enough to harmless to the remainder of her statements.

"Vocational training has been granted them," meaning the soldiers as a class. Misstatement two.

Vocational training can be given only to such soldiers as have suffered some form of disability in service and were discharged with such on their records.

Vocational training with pay can be given only to those seriously disabled in the service, and who are, in the judgment of a medical board, seriously handicapped.

Following any gainful occupation about 1 per cent of those who have applied for such training have succeeded in getting it.

Would the worthy and accurate lady begrudge such aid to a disabled soldier or should he have saved home and saved his country by knitting and running around to Red Cross charity bazaar.

WORK HORSE TYPE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I read your issue of the 10th and I was glad to see some people who read it. Those who read it will be glad to see some of the things that are going on.

Pardon me for once and I will offend no more. The subjects which call many writers to this column will all agree amounts to nothing more than chaffy chatter.

Some of our heavy shanked, fat-footed men are searching the city for Maud Muller's graceful ankles. Evidently nature still persists in her struggle to redeem the race; to take the bent and brutal human beasts of burden and remodel them to human form.

But it can't be done for you a while. The burden of this life is too heavy, nothing can grow graceful or natural under a heavy weight. All of the beautiful comes from sun, light and air, a reasonable amount of freedom to sway and swing to the breeze.

Efficiency is the stepping stone of this generation. I have lived to see efficiency sweep all that was beautiful under the sod.

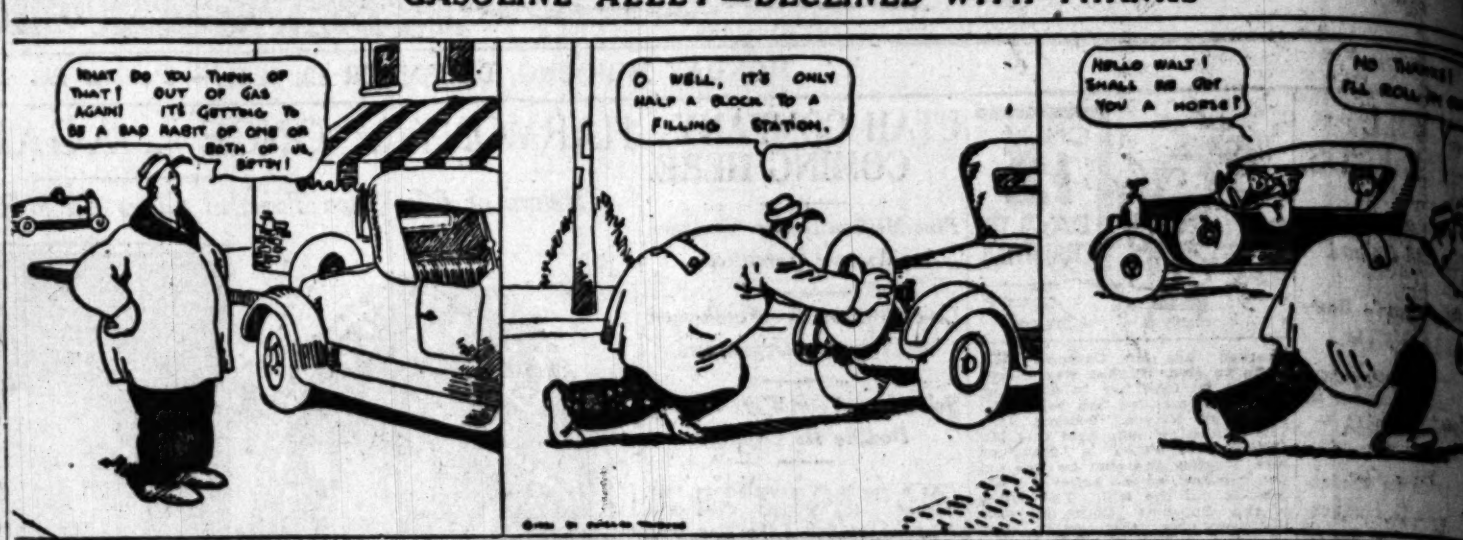

The grand and graceful ones who started when I did—those with great human heads and small, tapering ankles, have fallen from the race, and perished. This is the day of the "Clydesdale," the heavy horse.

Not all are small heads, of course. There are enough of large heads to take over the earth's production, and if that is done with a thought for the generations yet to come, then all is well; for beauty and grace will come with everything that comes with thought.

Almost every human being is found to possess a spark of that rare element which makes man a different creature from all other creatures. That element we call the human element. We notice it in children, but is very rare, indeed, beyond the age of 7 years.

We believe that spark will grow.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have read carefully Mrs. Grace I. Haynes' fervent epistle against granting the ex-soldiers a bonus that appeared in The Times, December 8, and I happen to take my hat off to her, not because of the vigor of her well-known phrase, and the humor of her futile epithets nor because I find myself to any degree in accord with her parsimonious attitude, but merely because she is a woman. After all, the only real reason why a woman should be drunkenly treated by men is the fact that she is a woman, and not a man, and not a mope, not a mandarin, not a male.

Mrs. Haynes applies the phrase, "feather-brained sentimentality" to me and to others who favor financial compensation for ex-soldiers. She also expresses a desire that we "who lack the gumption for running a wheelbarrow cease damning the government for refusing to grant a large bonus to all ex-soldiers. I rejoice in and am pleased with the brilliant epithets of the first two quotations for I consider that they carry with them no disagreeable connotation, while they are applied to citizens that believe it is now their patriotic privilege to assist the ex-soldier when he is in need just as much as it was their patriotic duty to aid and sustain him when he was on the battlefield; but the charges of the third excerpt from Mrs. Haynes' letter are really too unwarranted to let go by unchallenged.

I am not "damning" the government for finding it inadvisable to pass a bonus bill as it pledged itself to enact. The difficulties may be too great for an immediate remuneration on the part of the Federal government. Until the authorities at Washington take up in detail and completely the task of insuring every war veteran whether his time was spent at the front or not, another and a propitious start in the affairs of life and particularly in the business of earning an upright living, the State governments should not be unkindly should not be forgetful of the fact that they also have a debt to pay to those of our blood and our breed who were the backbone of the nation during the last year had been given to the California ex-soldiers, our debt would have already been generously discharged.

Of course the soldiers were not gods. Neither were they drunkards. I am sorry that Mrs. Haynes did not write you sooner for her letter reads as if she had long restrained and thus augmented her intolerance for us who still would regard the soldier as an American, even if he did come back alive.

I am ashamed that she had endeavored to defame all the Americans who answered the call by parading the infirmities of two or three. I am sure that her conduct is her obligations fulfilled and is contented with the fact that she welcomed the boys home with a "hurrah!"

JOHN HAROLD SWAN.

Shames the Bonus.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the letters to The Times I see that a great many people are not satisfied with the Volstead Act. If Adam and Eve or our progenitors drifted from the laws of God and squeezed grape juice into water and made a good-tasting drink that would make a man crazy, should the government be condemned for trying to correct their mistake?

Nature laughs with scorn at a person who, knowingly drinks something that will make him lose his right mind that God gave him to direct him with good judgment all through his life, or make a will-barrel out of his stomach, destroying the wisdom of digestion and undermining his health.

If the government would allow a thing sold to a person that would make him crazy, then they would commit no greater crime than to open the insane asylum and turn the maniac loose on society. I would rather have a sober neighbor than a drunken one. I would rather do business with a sober man than a person who is partially out of his mind from drink. I would rather my neighbor's home be happy and his family well taken care of than to see the head of the family coming home, a drunken, staggering fool to a weeping mother and half-starved children. Wouldn't you?

While the majority of the world may be wet, educators have always been in the minority. Do you know that 1/4 of 1 per cent of the people of the world have been the educators of all the rest? They have been the men that blazed the way in new thought and improvement. The majority of people refuse to advance or study a problem. The Los Angeles Times is writing some very deep editorials like the one December 1, "Out of the Chaos," which are educating and give one something to think about. How many people read them? They should be brought to the attention of every student in the high schools and colleges.

When the cause of crime and disease is generally understood it will be easy to educate the people to stop the manufacture of liquor. I believe it could be done more satisfactorily through a system of education than by force. A person should be willing even if he could take his drink sparingly, to let it entirely alone and break the habit for the benefit of the rest of mankind.

Any intelligent man that will view the history of the past which contains nothing but wars, bloodshed, crime and famine caused by the overconsumption of liquors and by wrong religious beliefs should not howl against a government that is trying to remove the cause. The overconsumption of liquor was the cause of the last war. The overconsumption of liquors is the cause of all wars, disease, crime and wrong religious beliefs.

Timely Warning.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I was somewhat amused at some of the letters in answer to that of the man who stood for hours on one of our busiest corners in a vain search for a pretty ankle. Why make excuses for the lecherous extremes of Californians? Why not try to account for the heedlessness of a man's brain who has no other office of thought and action than to do to do but stand around on the street and stare at women's

PERTINENT PULPIT PARAGRAPHS.

THE REV. R. R. HUGHES, CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., in his sermon on the subject of "The Mummies of Egypt," said: "There are more than 731,000 mummies in Egypt and each and every one has received the same great care, showing the eagerness of the Egyptians to perpetuate the body. Why this painstaking to preserve the body?"

"Every evidence is found in these mummy cases that the Egyptians believed in the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body. And he took every precaution to preserve the body until the spirit should again enter it."

"But one of these Pharaohs, whose mummy was found with thirty-three kings and queens in 1881, the text says: 'Pharaoh, King of Egypt is but a noise; he hath passed the time appointed.' Or as the revised version: 'He hath let the appointed time pass.' God says: 'Now, today, is the appointed time.' Have you like Pharaoh let the appointed time pass? His day is overgone. Pharaoh, King of Egypt, is but a noise. He is no account now, only a noise. Vanity of vanities, only a noise."

"These strange, wrinkled, dry swarthy mummies are not statues of images, or effigies of Pharaohs. They are the Pharaohs themselves—the bodies without the souls—where have the souls been these silent centuries? Four thousand years—that's an awful reach of time, a dreadful section of eternity. God says, 'Pharaoh, the King of Egypt is but a noise.' A noise is one of the things in the world that never ends. It stretches out along the shores of infinity. Its waves beating and beating but never breaking and hence never ceasing."

"A noise is very like the soul of man. It lasts so. Out in the air it wanders round, tireless, singing, wailing, sighing, vibrating. Never. That's the way a soul lives on—be it Pharaoh's soul or yours or mine. Pharaoh, King of Egypt, is but a noise; he hath let the appointed time pass. Where has Pharaoh's soul been all these 4000 years? Where will your soul be, my soul be?"

"Where on the earth is old and the stars grow cold, and the leaves of the judgment book unfold?"

Answer that—

REV. DAN A. TRUNDLE, ALVARADO CHRISTIAN.

"The divine model for human solidarity is the human body. It is very expressive of the Christ's organized forces for the salvation of the world. What Jesus taught 1900 years ago the world is just now beginning to learn. That we are one when we realize that world normalcy means unity of interest, solidarity of aim, oneness of hope, singleness of purpose, union of all good and the ultimate destruction of all wrong."

"None are safe till all are safe. No man can feel a sense of security unless all men are given a hope of safety. That which hurts one, hurts all and that which truly lifts to higher level, one even the least of us, lifts all."

"Said Paul: 'Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same spirit. And there are diversities of ministrations, and the same Lord. And there are diversities of workings, but the same God, who worketh all things in all.' The author of spiritual law is the author of all law. The law of gravitation is the law of God as well as the law of man. 'Whatever a man soweth that also shall he reap.' In fact that law itself is also a physical law. Any principle that works anywhere works everywhere. That which is good now will be good in eternity."

DR. R. A. TORREY, CHURCH OF THE OPEN DOOR.

"There are in the Bible many things hard to be understood, but from the very nature of the case, difficulties are not to be wondered at, but to be expected. Some people are surprised that there are difficulties in the Bible, but for my part I would be far more surprised if there were no difficulties in the Bible."

"What is the Bible? It is the word of God, that is the revelation of the mind and will and character and purpose and methods and nature and being of an infinitely great, perfectly wise and absolutely holy God. And what are you and I? We are men and women and children who are very imperfect in intellect, in development and mental grasp and capacity, and we are also imperfect in character and moral and spiritual discernment. The wisest man, measured on the scale of eternity and God, is a very young babe, and the holiest man or woman among us, compared with God, is less than an infant in moral and spiritual development."

SOME SERMON PARAGRAPHS.

DR. J. WHITCOMB BROOKER, TEMPLE BAPTIST.

"The Apostle Paul gives us the secret of meeting successfully the ups and downs of life. He says that he was 'initiated' into the secret of how to enjoy and make the most of both prosperity and adversity. He had learned how to 'abound and be in want.' This is a secret that everyone needs to learn today. It is just as difficult to be a consistent, upright Christian in times of prosperity as it is in times of adversity. No one ought to expect that life will move along on a perfect level. We must have 'ups and downs.'"

"There are bound to be some successes and some failures; some joys and some sorrows; some achievements and some disappointments. We must expect these things and not be surprised when they come. There will be financial ups and downs, health ups and downs, social ups and downs, spiritual ups and downs. Life is like a wheel, and the revolutions will place us up one day and down the next. The person who is going to meet the changing circumstances of life and maintain a happy, contented disposition must develop a character that can stand the test of life's varied experiences."

"We must be reconciled to whatever we can not change or control. To be reconciled means more than to submit to the inevitable. Submission is not reconciliation. We may unwillingly submit to certain conditions, but if we do we will grow irritable under the restraint."

"Many people ruin their lives by petulance, irritation, foolish discontent. Reconciliation is a voluntary and good-natured acceptance of one's lot with the determination to make the best of it. Most people would count their blessings rather than their troubles. It would behoove them to hear their own advertisements. If people would ask to hear the burdens of one another, they would discover that they did not have so much to worry about themselves."

"Stop thinking about your life. Stop brooding over your trials and disappointments. Do not be one man with a grievance. Think and talk prosperity and happiness. Do something to help somebody else. Trust Christ and pray to Him for strength to master the various experiences of life."

DR. HUBBARD BROWN, SOUTH PARK CHRISTIAN.

"Some people never seem to be happy unless they have something to worry about."

"The world is filled with beauty when the heart is filled with love. Happiness never comes in the things outside of us, but in the spirit within us."

"Whenever you are tempted to mean and grudge, remember that there are a mighty lot of people who would be glad to exchange places with you."

"Other people are happy and grateful with less than you have. Why not you? Every misery missed is a new mercy."

"Some sleep sounder on mattresses of straw than others on couches of ivory and pillows of eiderdown."

"While Nero, the Emperor, was growling in his palace, Paul, the prisoner, was singing in his cell. Thinking good is thanking God."

"Byron, the most fated and courted bon vivant of all Europe, declared in his last hours that he had known only twelve happy days."

"Napoleon built the palace of Versailles and Versailles and the said he would give them both to his heir of the east."

"William, the Prime Minister of Persia, lost all the joy of life and then life itself because one poor Jew did not tip his hat to him. He was only one bow short, but nothing else seemed to count."

"Why not be thankful for some of the smooth places instead of musing all the bumps?"

"Do your best and forget the rest."

BANDITS ROUSE IRE

Victim Sought Them All Night After Threat Was Made.

It wasn't so much the fact that he was robbed, but threats to blow his brains out that aroused A. Broosky's ire against two hold-up men late Saturday night. One of the men armed with a revolver and the other carrying a heavy club, stole $55 and a watch from Mr. Broosky at Maple and Pine streets.

After the armed man had threatened to "blow out his brains" if Broosky made any outcry, the latter hastened home, procured a revolver and searched for the bandits until daylight. Failing to find them he reported the case to the police.

Young and petite, Mrs. Hopper recounts a story of cruelty at the hands of her husband which she says has lasted for almost four years. Mr. Hopper was always extremely jealous, the complaint states, and on a number of occasions accused her of flirting and being interested in other men.

Besides being jealous, another of Mr. Hopper's habits was to enter and leave his home by the way of the window. He often told his wife that he did this so "he could get something on her," she says. In the complaint, which was prepared by Attorney Channing Polette, Mrs. Hopper asks for the custody of the couple's 4-year-old daughter, Audrey, and for $750 a month alimony.

The divorce suit was dismissed after the couple again lived together for a week. But out of the $2800 monthly that Mr. Hopper earns as a motion-picture director, each should take $75 a week for personal expenses, for lack of money had been one of the particular complaints of Mrs. Hopper in her action.

But the renewed bliss of the couple lasted but a few days and now Mrs. Hopper has filed a second complaint for divorce, reiterating for the most part her former charges, though setting forth several additional causes

SITUATION IN WHEAT SERIOUS.

Lack of Speculation Keeps Prices Down.

Efforts to Force Advance Have No Effect.

United States Can't Export Much Grain.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A lack of speculative trading alone stands in the way of a much higher level of wheat and corn prices, as some of the leading interests see the situation. It is generally believed that a far more serious condition prevails in wheat than the trade in general believes, but foreigners continue to disseminate propaganda in favor of lower prices, and local efforts to bring about an advance have had no permanent effect so far.

The world's wheat situation is rendered complex by the lack of authoritative crop estimates from the Southern Hemisphere. It is preliminary to the return from Argentina, taken at their face value, are only an average, a decided reduction in the estimates as to the exportable surplus will be necessary.

The Australian surplus was recently reduced to 20,000,000 bushels, and the general belief is that the oriental and Indian demand will be sufficient to take care of virtually all this grain. On this basis only Argentina and Canada need be considered as large exporters to Europe for the balance of the season, although India might have some grain to ship next May when the new crop is harvested.

CAN'T EXPORT MUCH.

As an exporter the United States need not be considered seriously from now on unless the crop has been decidedly underestimated. Unofficial estimates of the export from July 1 to December 31 suggest a total clearance of around 300,000,000 bushels, or theoretically all the grain this country has to spare. It is regarded as probable, however, that the total for the season will materially exceed this figure, but it will be at the expense of reserves and necessitate liberal importations of Canadian wheat.

Factors other than the size of the world's wheat crop must be taken into consideration before ideas as to prices are expressed. There is a world shortage in the rice crop this season—the greatest breadstuff aside from wheat—according to the statistical showing, which accounts for the abnormal demand for the latter grain from the Orient.

WHEAT REPLACES RICE.

The crop of rice in the United States alone is around 10,000,000 bushels less than last year's, and has a surplus about equal to the actual needs of Japan, but there are other importing countries that must be considered and economic conditions make it necessary to secure a somewhat cheaper foodstuff, therefore wheat is being taken to a greater extent than for many years.

Statisticians generally believe that as long as Russia is unable to export there will be a continued close adjustment of supplies of wheat to the demand of the world over. Russia, which exports, furnished 20 to 25 per cent of the total world's shipments, and while production in other countries has been increased, no burdensome surplus exists.

FORECLOSURE SUIT

OVER INACTIVE MINE.

JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT TO BE TAKEN AGAINST ARIZONA HERCULES.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 9.—No defense has been offered by the Arizona Hercules Copper Company to a foreclosure suit brought against it here by the Empire Trust Company of New York, trustee and default judgment will be entered soon by the plaintiff's attorney, Richard E. Ryan.

The principal sum is $3,000,000, with $577,000 added interest unpaid. Ninety per cent of the defendant corporation's stock has been held by the Ray Hercules Copper Company, which has been operating mines on Mineral Creek, Pinal county, since the main body of the Ray Consolidated, its claims covering about 200 acres.

The debt was incurred through construction of a modern flotation mill, with Diesel power plant, a very efficient hotel (concrete ore bins, shops, railroad connection, a bridge across Mineral Creek and other improvements through which there was to be handled at least 600 tons of ore a day. The mill ran for only a few weeks, with apparent lack of profit in operation.

By means of a main haulage drift and regularly diverging stopping drifts there was to be developed a developed ore body estimated at 25,000,000 tons above the 500 level, with 10,000,000 tons claimed to exceed 2 per cent copper. There had been discussion within the company and some litigation with the Ray Consolidated.

For more than a year the mine and works have been inactive. The stock has fallen from about $5 a share to a late quotation of 25 cents.

CAIRO TO BAGDAD BY AIR.

The airplane mail route from Cairo to Bagdad, which has been in operation since June, is carrying of British government correspondence only, has been opened to the public. It is 840 miles long, with stations at Ramleh and Amman, in Palestine. Thence it proceeds straight across the Arabian desert to Ramadid on the Euphrates.

For the present, the mail will be limited to letters and a shilling mail fee at the rate of 1 shilling an ounce will be charged in addition to the ordinary imperial postage. Parcels and insured packages will not be carried.

Mails will be dispatched by this route from London once a week in connection with the ordinary Indian mail.

The time of transmission from London to Bagdad will vary from eleven to eighteen days, a saving from seven to fourteen days over the present arrangement.—[Kansas City Star.]

WORLD FEEDING FROM OUR CRIB.

Great Buying of Wheat by Germany Jumps Total.

Rumor Coast Shipments Are for Japan Scouted.

Pacific Northwest Traffic Increases Heavily.

Buying almost twelve times as much wheat in this country the last ten months as in the corresponding period of 1920, Germany has just demonstrated that this country virtually feeds the world, according to figures compiled yesterday. It fed virtually all the civilized nations during the war, and for a long time afterward. Now it is supplying Germany vast quantities of foodstuffs, according to Pacific Coast wheat exchange reports.

A statement of the Department of Commerce for September shows that Germany bought from this country 35,470,000 bushels of wheat the first ten months of this year. Her purchases last year amounted to 3,472,000 bushels.

Rumors from London and New York that Japan has been buying great quantities of wheat here and clearing her transaction through London banks are scouted by officials of the Los Angeles grain exchange. Secretary M. D. Thibault says that big shipments of wheat have been exported from the Coast this year, but that so far as he knows they have not been going to Japan.

Some idea of the traffic in wheat in the Pacific Northwest this year may be gathered from the fact that since July 1, Seattle has shipped 4258 carloads, Portland, 15,391 and Tacoma, 5608 cars. Last year Seattle handled 2332 cars, Portland shipped 7532 and Tacoma 2700 cars.

Pacific Coast grain shippers are inclined to think that, because of the heavy buying of wheat for export, the bulk of this increased exportation from the Northwest. A close check on Japanese buying can be made at this point, because most any commission merchant can buy wheat on the Coast, clear his papers through London in June and July, and ship the wheat taken to any point in the world without its destination being known locally, grain dealers say.

HIGH GOLD VALUES

FOUND AT KATHERINE

THREE HUNDRED DOLLAR ORE REPORTED IN WINZE AND CROSSCUT.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.) KATHERINE (Ariz.) Dec. 9.—In the Katherine mine, a crosscut from the completed 500 level station is being driven across the big vein, with reported continuation of the high gold values found on upper levels. From the 400 level a strike is being made, 300 feet from the 500 level, to be crosscut at regular levels. At the head of the Silver Hills company is W. J. Loring, president of the American Mining Congress.

Gold Chain has crosscut from more than fifty feet northward on the 100 level without passing out of its ore.

In the Katherine Extension the south crosscut on the 250 level is reported to be nearing the vein.

A new shaft is being sunk on the Flamingo property, for development of the vein which is reported to sample about $12 in gold on the croppings. The principal owner is W. A. Smith.

Los Angeles capital, represented by Leslie Monk, is behind a new enterprise, the Adams Extension, on the Flamingo property. Development work has been started.

BOND MARKET OUTLOOK GOOD.

Slight Reaction in Prices Not Unexpected.

But Stocks Put Dampener on Enthusiasm.

Declines and Apathy Are Mysterious.

BY ALEXANDER DANA NOYES. NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—There was both encouragement and discouragement in last week's financial markets.

That the long-continued rise of investment bond prices would halt, giving place to moderate reaction under reselling sales by speculators who had bought at the early autumn prices, was reasonably to have been expected. But sentiment is wholly cheerful regarding the general outlook of the investment market; it has also been notably encouraged by the action of foreign exchange.

On the other hand, the declining stock market has acted as a dampener on enthusiasm; for, as everyone knows, the general American public is always apt to take its cue from the course of the stock exchange.

As a whole, however, the decline in stocks was no more mysterious than the apathy of that market in immediate sequence to such recent developments as the Washington conference, the rising bond market, the Irish settlement and the advances in foreign exchange.

It meant undoubtedly that revival in general trade and in what we commonly call prosperity, whether it will come in the spring or not, is at any rate not yet in sight.

ONE FACT OVERLOOKED.

The week's speculative selling of railway shares undoubtedly had that in mind, for railway gross earnings depend on activity in general trade. One fact, however, looked by the market, namely, that the decrease of 16 to 19 per cent from last year in gross earnings of the railways in October and apparently for November, so means much less than the decrease of 8 to 12 per cent in high level of 1921 and September, 1920.

As business revives, the comparison will naturally grow more favorable. Meanwhile, under existing circumstances, the economies practiced have brought net earnings of the companies as a whole almost within 1 per cent of the 8 per cent rate on property valuation contemplated in the Transportation Act.

VIEW PARTLY CORRECT.

The European exchange, outside of those central European countries which are deluged with paper inflation, has been a gross success, attributed to large economic causes. The exchange market's view that rates have advanced this past week is almost entirely correct.

The price of the gold market showed a decrease for the first time in a month, 72 paper marks being paid for a 20-mark gold piece.

While the rise of the mark in the last ten days is increasing, its value abroad is not so high. It has a salutary effect on the purchase of much needed raw materials abroad by Germany.

RISE IN MARK IS ANALYZED.

Berlin Bourse Situation Still Is Uncertain.

Sharp Break in Stock Prices During Past Week.

Stabilization Awaits Result of London Dickerings.

BERLIN, Dec. 11.—The sudden rise in the value of the mark, corresponding with a sharp break in stock prices on the Bourse, was the chief financial feature of the week. The Bourse situation continued uncertain throughout the week, but foreign exchange ruled considerably firmer and as a result the week marks were quoted at 150 to the dollar.

Nothing in the way of stabilization can be expected until financial negotiations carried on in London by Dr. Rathenau, Chancellor of the Reich, and Minister Loucheur assume efficient shape.

ALTERNATING REPORTS.

Whatever fluctuations took place during the week, they were determined by alternating pessimistic and optimistic reports from London and Paris on moratorium and credit proceedings. The dollar as well as other foreign currencies took a slight jump during the week with the arrival of the reparations commission's note saying that Germany could not expect an extension of the January and February payments.

This rise, however, proved only temporary, due to the heavy buying of marks in London, which was stimulated by the failure of the Reichsbank to announce a result of exchange negotiations.

FOREIGN LOAN.

Indications now point to the necessity of the government to approve a loan of 100,000,000 gold marks abroad to meet the January payment, as the project for a large credit for the government by Germany seems to have gone to pot.

Stocks and other securities on the Bourse presented a situation of uncertainty, with reports of a financial failure of a whole line of financial institutions. In general, both exchange and security markets continued confused and uncertain.

The Reichsbank report showed considerable increase in paper circulation, nearly 5,000,000,000 marks—making the total about 108,000,000,000. This increase is a record for the Reichsbank's paper circulation, and the lower level of the mark is under way.

Northwest of the shaft is an attractive gouge streak on which it is proposed to sink a winze 500 feet deep, thereafter drifting. It is possible determination may now be made concerning treatment of the company's large carboniferous deposit on which an experimental leaching plant was operated last year with announced success.

When the long Extension shaft is driven, passing for a long distance near and parallel to Dundee ground, there was expectation that some arrangement would be reached for its use by the Dundee, but there has been no such agreement.

Drifting is to be started at once on the 1700-foot level of United Verde Extension toward Jerome-Verde ground. This may be entered within a month. Several such workings are projected on different levels. Over 88 per cent of the stockholders of the Jerome-Verde Development Company to which the property has been transferred, have accepted the proposition for exchange of their stock for the new issue of the Jerome-Verde Development Company.

GRATEFUL ONES LEND AID.

Anonymous letters from persons who have in the past been helped by the relief work of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association have been flooding the office of the philanthropic organization during the past week, according to Sidney Maguire, executive secretary.

Small purchases by mail ranging from 10 cents to $10 have come in from grateful mothers whose children were changed from weaklings into sturdy youngsters. Parents of kiddies who have been benefited by the clinical work seem to want to help in no matter how destitute their circumstances. Many of them come in person to the campaign headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce Building, and ask to be allowed to purchase small amounts ranging upward from a dime. In some instances where the seal sale would have meant the sacrifice of possibly a meal or carfare to and from work, the executives in charge have taken the will for the deed, and given the would-be purchasers the seals, paying for the Christmas stickers out of their own pockets.

"We have a world of work to do in 1922," Miss Maguire explained yesterday, "and every dollar we receive is a nail in the barricade we are constantly building up to keep the dread white plague from gaining too great a foothold in Los Angeles."

In the rush of early Christmas shopping many persons please hold the seals and our letter and put off sending in their dollar for the stickers mailed to them. In order to avoid an eleventh-hour rush on the night before Christmas we urge that all who received seals through the mail, send in their check, money order or currency at once.

THEOSOPHIST TALKS ON WOMEN'S WORK.

"Has Woman Found Her True Work?" was the subject of the address last evening at the services of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society at Symphony Hall in the Music-Art Studio Building, conducted under the personal supervision of Mrs. Katherine Tingley.

The lecturer said "most of us put woman down as an inscrutable mystery and let it go at that." The afternoon address was by Mrs. E. M. S. Pitt on the subject, "Questions that Are Asked Us." The music for both services consisted of tenor solos by George L. Davenport of Point Loma, with Miss Marie Louise Lloyd of Los Angeles at the piano.

Edmonds's residence, 232 South Benton way, was entered and after emptying drawers and turning over furniture the intruders left, taking $7. Mrs. F. E. Hale, 223 South Benton way, reported $10 and several rings stolen. Tapestry cushions were stolen from 1826 West Sixth street.

SYNDICALIST SUSPECT ARRESTED BY POLICE.

A Rogers, 35 years of age, was arrested yesterday by Officers Adams and Torrie on suspicion of criminal syndicalism. He was asserted to have had Red literature in his possession. He told the police he was a shoemaker from Minnesota.

EXTRA PAY FOR CAR MEN.

Rewards for safety, courtesy and efficiency in street-car operation during the past year will be given car men of the Los Angeles Railway Thursday, when the annual Christmas bonus, amounting to $88,059, is distributed. Three meetings will be held at Recreation Hall, the company's building at Georgia and Girard streets. The checks will be presented by General Manager Kuhrt and George Baker, Anderson, manager of transportation for the yellow-car system.

The awards are made under the railway's merit and bonus system, by which an accurate check of the 2200 employees is maintained. The amounts received are based on the records the men have made.

SLEEP-WALKER FALLS.

Onward Rancher Drops Three Stories While Somnolent.

J. W. Coyne, 35 years of age, an Onward rancher, was seriously injured Saturday night when, according to police surgeons, he fell while walking in his sleep from the third-story window of a house at 317 North Hill street, where he had rented a room. His back was broken and his right wrist fractured. After receiving emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital, Mr. Coyne was removed to the Clara Barton Hospital.

REPORT STEALING OF "STAGE" REVOLVERS.

Revolvers intended for stage purposes only have been disappearing from the Metro studios, according to a report to police yesterday by Thomas H. Beech. Three revolvers have been taken in the last two weeks. Thieves early yesterday morning broke the window of the House of Props, 1047 South Grand avenue, and stole three revolvers. Detective Sergeants Toomey and Nickens were detailed to the case.

Tournament of Roses Pageant East vs. West Football Game

California
Unbeaten in the West

The Greatest Annual Event in Southern California!

For years hundreds of thousands have enjoyed the wonderfully beautiful Floral Parade in the morning and the Sports at Tournament Park in the afternoon on New Year's Day.

Some years ago we had chariot races, and of recent years a great East vs. West Football Game. That this game has been popular has been attested to by the fact that although our park seats 42,000, over 40,000 more were unable to secure seats last year. We have outgrown our present facilities, and the building of a great Stadium is of vital necessity that we may continue with our Tournament of Roses and perpetuate the great New Year's Intersectional Game and be able to handle the crowds.

Purchase seats now for a five or ten-year period, which seats become your absolute property for the time purchased, to retain or dispose of at your pleasure. Seats are sold as follows.

5-year Seats, $50 and $5 war tax—$17.50 Cash, $12.50 Feb. 1st, April 1, June 1, 1922

10-year Seats, $100 and $10 war tax—$35.00 Cash, $25.00 Feb. 1st, April 1, June 1, 1922

Having no Stadium for this year's football game, each purchaser of a 5 or 10-year seat is entitled to two seats at $5 each, or four at $2.50 each, for this year in Tournament Park.

No seats will be available for the coming game except to purchasers of 5 or 10-year Stadium seats, as the capacity of our Park will be absorbed by this plan.

Sim Crabill Says

"Good printing is as necessary to the business of selling as good wishes and a happy spirit to real Christmas cheer."

"Think it over!"

A HELPFUL little booklet that has won each year is the Annual Shopping List and Seasonal Greetings published by S. Nordlinger and Sons.

That it has also proved a real selling value is evidenced by their reprinting us every year—and the Mirror Printing and Engraving House has published "A List of Christmas Gifts" from the very first.

When you are ready to printing over to a house give you every facility and ice—phone 10519 and Times-Mirror representatives on you.
